What to do with Enmax?

CEO Gary Holden resigned on Friday ◐ Forbes included him in list of top 10 CEO screw-ups of 2010

KATIE TURNER
CALGARY@METRONEWS.CA

Following the resignation of Enmax's CEO, some outsiders are looking for major changes in the way the city-owned company functions.

The Enmax board of directors asked Gary Holden to step down Friday after two emergency meetings held last week.

In the wake of controversies surrounding Enmax, Scott Hennig of the Canadian Taxpayers Federation suggested council should seriously look into selling the utility.

"It has been a bit of headache and distraction for council," he said. "And there's much more important things that they could be working on. Why not look and see if there's any good offers?"

However, Ald. Dale Hodges said Hennig's suggestion is unrealistic.

"His point of view is far too simplistic for the way municipalities operate — especially a big one like Calgary," he said.

Instead, Hodges said, council members should be privy to more information than they currently are.

"Unless you're a member of that board, you don't have a lot of information about what is really happening," he said. "Only the bare morsels are fed to council, and sometimes it's hard to find even a morsel."

On the other hand, Ald. Jim Stevenson said he thinks council should be farther removed.

"I don't think that we should have aldermen on the board of directors, but that's just my thoughts on it."

Council will discuss the recent developments at Enmax today, during an in-camera meeting.

All quiet, for now

- Ald. Brian Pincott, who sits on Enmax's board of directors, said no other members have been asked to resign at this time.
- However, he said the annual general meeting is coming up in May and some board members may be at the end of their term.
- "I think generally, we have a very high-functioning board," he said.

Finally, a New Year's resolution you can keep.

Extinction linked to volcanoes, say U of C researchers

Researchers with the University of Calgary believe they may have solved the mystery surrounding Earth's largest extinction.

The Permian extinction is believed to have occurred about 250 million years ago — back even before dinosaurs roamed the planet — and wiped out 95 per cent of life in the sea and 75 per cent of life on land.

Dr. Steve Grasby, a professor with the U of C's department of geoscience, said while the extinction event was massive, "the research community hasn't really defined a clear cause for it yet."

That is, he believes, until now.

Grasby said he and fellow researchers discovered a layer of coal ash in a rock formation in Nunavut.

Analysis of the ash dated it to the time of the extinction, supporting a theory that massive volcanic eruptions accelerated the creation of greenhouse gases and inevitably devastated life on the planet, he said.

"This is the first direct line of evidence we have found," Grasby said. "It's in one location, so we really need to better understand what is the global distribution of this — do we see these ash layers elsewhere?"

The researchers' findings were published yesterday in Nature Geoscience. ● JEREMY NOLAIS

Can green plan save city school?

▶ Sir James Lougheed Elementary could potentially close at the end of the school year ▶ Parents would like to see solar panels and a greenhouse

KATIE TURNER
CALGARY@METRONEWS.CA

Parents fearful of losing their neighbourhood school are hoping their plan to create a "green" program can save Sir James Lougheed Elementary.

"Sir James is a hidden gem," Denise Lehman said of the school her twin six-year-old daughters attend. "It seems that the only way to really save the school is to make it an alternative program ... The only one that Calgary really doesn't have is a green school."

Due to low enrolment, CEOP, the Calgary Board of Education's community-engagement group may recommend that the CBE close the school.

Parent council chair Rita Hinderman said the council is drafting a proposal that would see Sir James Lougheed become a green school, which they believe would increase enrolment.

Hinderman said their plan expands on the CBE's Eco Stewardship program and would seek to incorporate environmental awareness into everyday learning.

Ted Flitton, a spokesperson for the CBE, said they would have to take a better look at the parent council's proposal.

"Establishing an alternative program doesn't necessarily assist with helping the program," he said. "But that said, do we want to work with parents? Absolutely."

Background

- Sir James Lougheed was built in 1957.
- It serves students from Grades 1 through 6.
- There are around 70 students currently enrolled in the elementary school.

The 21-year-old driver lost control of the car, crashing into parked cars and rolling over on the 3200 block of Dover Ridge Drive SE. Police said speed and alcohol are considered factors in the accident. METRO

RCMP shooting investigated

BOYLE. The Alberta Serious Incident Response Team is investigating after a man was shot and wounded by RCMP near Edmonton.

Boyle RCMP attended a trailer residence at about 7:15 p.m. following a report that shots had apparently been fired.

Police said once on scene, the suspect was asked to exit and did so, but had a shotgun in his hand. He refused to drop the weapon so he was shot, police said. METRO

Rare disorder won't stop 20-year-old

- Kelsey Ferrill plans to work in health industry
- Today is first-ever Moebius Syndrome Awareness Day

JEREMY NOLAIS/METRO

▶ Kelsey Ferrill shows proof that there are many faces associated with Moebius syndrome.

As a baby, Kelsey Ferrill didn't cry.

She had to be force fed with a bottle and doctors believed she was blind because her eyes were unable to follow light.

"You knew something was wrong," recalls her father Chris. "You just didn't know what."

Finally, after a month or two of dedicated research by her pediatrician, Ferrill was diagnosed with Moebius syndrome, a rare neurological disorder that affects a person's eye movement and ability to produce facial expressions among other things.

Now 20, Ferrill looks back at her struggles to date, which include about 10 corrective surgeries and a general stigma attached to her disorder.

"People think that because you look differently, you're not all there. I think that's a real misconception," Ferrill said.

Chris said research into Moebius syndrome is still in its "infancy," but the disorder has done little to hinder his daughter's hopes and dreams.

"You tell her that, yes, you may have physical attributes that are a little bit different but so does everybody," he said.

Facing Moebius

- On average, there are two to 20 cases of Moebius syndrome per one million births. Doctors have not found genetic link for occurrence of the disorder.
- The disorder comes as a result of underdevelopment in the Nos. 6 and 7 and, sometimes, No. 8 cranial nerves.
- Most people born with Moebius syndrome experience facial paralysis and are unable to move their eyes laterally. It can also cause numerous other physical impairments related to a person's limbs and chest.
- The first international Moebius Syndrome Awareness Day was chosen for today as it is the birth date of Prof. Paul Julius Möbius, who first diagnosed the disorder in 1888.

New Canadian currency tough to counterfeit

Security features, crackdowns have reduced phoney cash But merchants reluctant to accept $100 bills

Don't fear the C-note.

While the Canadian dollar soars in value, counterfeiting is way down as newer bank notes are tough to replicate.

Many businesses won't accept those light-brown $100 bills, citing bad experiences with phoney cash in the past, and some still get taken by poor-quality fake bills since they don't stop to feel, tilt and look at what they've been handed.

"Our bank notes are excellent, but only as good as the person using them," said Manuel Parreira, senior regional rep of the Bank of Canada. "We fight counterfeiting quite well and the proof is in the decline we've seen over the years."

About 1.4 billion Canadian bank notes are in circulation.

Holographs, metallic strips, raised ink, watermarks, see-through panels and thread on the Canadian Journey series first issued in 2004 make them hard to copy.

▶ You won't get conned if you touch, tilt and look.

Some gas stations, stores and parking lots still won't accept $100 bills. Small shop owners shy away from large bills, not wanting to run out of lower denominations or risk a large amount of cash on hand, especially late at night.

Journey note security features, people's awareness and a series of crackdowns on crime rings in the Toronto area have had their impact on counterfeiting.

RCMP records show that in 1992 about $575,000 in bogus currency was produced and circulated across Canada.

"In 2004, it peaked at $13 million, and in 2009 it went down to $3.4 million," said Sgt. John Mecher, the RCMP's counterfeit co-ordinator for the Ontario region.

A further decline is expected when 2010 figures are calculated this spring.

"It's almost always organized crime that is producing counterfeit money," said Sgt. Sue MacLean, of the RCMP's national counterfeit section. "This is just another way to make more illegal money."

Tunisian regime not welcome here: Feds

Ottawa has issued a stern warning to members of Tunisia's ousted ruling class, saying they aren't welcome in Canada.

The statement comes as reports circulate that a brother-in-law of Tunisia's former president Zine El Abidine Ben Ali landed in Montreal aboard a private jet Friday with his wife and children in tow.

But a group of Tunisian Canadians in Montreal weren't entirely convinced with the government's assurances. Haroun Bouazzi, a spokesperson for a Tunisian solidarity group in Montreal, said the community is sure members of Ben Ali's family are staying in the city. THE CANADIAN PRESS

IN SEARCH OF NASA'S NEXT ABBEY ROAD

Imagine an official NASA space poster with a group of astronauts decked out in Canadian and Russian hockey uniforms.

That's one of the suggestions Canadian astronaut Chris Hadfield has received so far from his followers on the Internet.

For the past few weeks, Hadfield has been using Twitter and Facebook to get ideas for a poster for Expedition 35 — his upcoming long-duration mission to the International Space Station.

Hadfield will become the first Canadian commander to take charge of the space station during his six-month stay, which begins late next year.

The 51-year-old space veteran promises his poster won't be a boring one showing astronauts just standing around in their spacesuits and helmets in their hands.

The most recent eye-catching placard is of the crew of Expedition 26, who recreated the Beatles' famous Abbey Road cover.

Chinese stealth fighter using U.S. technology?

China rolled out plane before U.S. defence secretary's visit ◐ Shows growing might of country's forces: Analysts

Chinese officials recently unveiled a new, high-tech stealth fighter that could pose a significant threat to American air superiority — and some of its technology, it turns out, may well have come from the U.S. itself.

Balkan military officials and other experts have told The Associated Press that in all probability the Chinese gleaned some of their technological know-how from an American F-117 Nighthawk that was shot down over Serbia in 1999.

Nighthawks were the world's first stealth fighters, planes that were very hard for radar to detect. But on March 27, 1999, during NATO's aerial bombing of Serbia in the Kosovo War, a Serbian anti-aircraft missile shot one of the Nighthawks down.

It was the first time one of the much-touted "invisible" fighters had ever been hit. The Pentagon believed a combination of clever tactics and sheer luck had allowed a Soviet-built SA-3 missile to bring down the jet.

The wreckage was strewn over a wide area of flat farmlands, and civilians collected the parts — some the size of small cars — as souvenirs.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Competition

China's multi-role stealth fighter — known as the Chengdu J-20 — made its inaugural flight on Jan. 11. Although it's at least eight or nine years from entering air force inventory, it could become a rival to America's top-of-the-line F-22 Raptor, the successor to the Nighthawk and the only stealth fighter currently in service.

Eyes on major earnings report

Economic data and corporate profits will guide investors this week as Canadian companies begin reporting fourth-quarter earnings in earnest and the market sees the latest take on U.S. economic growth.

Earnings from the two major railroads — Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway — are expected Wednesday and fertilizer giant Potash Corp. of Saskatchewan Thursday.

Amid growing demand for fertilizer, PotashCorp shares have surged from a low of just less than $90 last July, a couple of weeks before BHP Billiton made its unsuccessful bid for the company, to a high of about $172 early last week.

$600B The feds announced plans in November to buy $600 billion of long-term government bonds by mid-2011 in an attempt to boost lending.

"At $170, it's trading above the highest it traded during the whole BHP Billiton takeover attempt," said Colin Cieszynsky, market analyst at CMC Markets Canada.

Google trying to get hip and nimble

Company makes most of its money from ads triggered by search requests

Google is richer than ever, but it's not as cool as it once was.

Facebook boasts 500 million members who share 30 billion links, notes and photos each month — data that Google's search engine can't completely index.

It's so influential that 26-year-old founder Mark Zuckerberg was just named Time's person of the year, and a movie about the company's early days is a contender for best picture at the Oscars.

Twitter, Groupon and Foursquare, all hard-charging and potentially game-changing services, are additional thorns in Google's side, raising worries that the online search leader may be losing the competitive edge that turned it into the Internet's most powerful company.

"Facebook has become the cool kid on the block, and now Google wants to prove it can still be cool, too."

DANNY SULLIVAN, EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, SEARCH ENGINE LAND

Making Google hip and nimble again will be the priority as Larry Page, one of the two Stanford University students who founded the company in a garage in 1998, prepares to reclaim the CEO job in a shakeup that surprised Silicon Valley.

Research from city hall showed that not one person from India, China or Pakistan immigrated to my neighbourhood at last census count.

Our housing costs rival Silicon Valley.

I was one of 100,000 people who downloaded these neighbourhood reports from the City of Calgary website.

John te Linde oversees the social research unit.

After 25 years, he notes a disturbing trend.

"When we first produced community reports, there was less concentration of rich and poor. Now, we're losing our social mix in communities."

Can you feel it?

Wait, that Filipino woman at the car wash. She's not alone.

There are two well-dressed people waiting in the SUV. They watch her polish within an inch of her life.

I try to speak to her. No English.

Their servant? Perhaps this serves as a metaphor. Our neighbourhoods are separated into washers and those comfortably watching the washers.

"Perhaps this serves as a metaphor. Our neighbourhoods are separated into washers and those comfortably watching the washers."

Our housing policy is to blame.

Take a look at the much ballyhooed PlanIt, or TOD plans.

Sure, they call for a housing mix, but no price mix. Sure, they provide more density — for the really well off.

The city says the province won't let it tell developers to include lower-priced units in new developments.

But Noel Keough of Sustainable Calgary thinks there's wiggle room: "Affordable housing allows people to live close to work without owning a car and to have some choice about where to live."

He thinks the city could:

- Require affordable housing units on land it owns.
- Set percentages of affordable housing in Calgary neighbourhoods.
- Permit secondary suites city wide. Right now, many rich neighbourhoods are exempt.

Sure, we can carry on like this, but we can't say we know Calgary is growing more unequal.

Sustainable Calgary and the public library have a Feb. 16 book club on The Spirit Level: Why Greater Equality Makes Cities Stronger.

Inequality, the authors argue, causes stress — for everyone.

Even those watching someone else wash and buff their SUV.

A look inside polygamy

Worth mentioning

The women of a secretive polygamous sect in southeastern British Columbia have been cast as slaves, shackled by their religion in a world of abuse.

But several women from Bountiful, B.C., will tell a different story when they testify in a Vancouver courtroom this week, insisting polygamy has been a positive force in their lives and asking that the law against multiple marriage be thrown out.

A B.C. Supreme Court judge examining the constitutionality of Canada's anti-polygamy law has spent nearly two months hearing experts debate about the alleged harms of polygamy.

Several women and men who left polygamous communities have also recounted what they described as physical and emotional abuse.

But this week's testimony will offer a rare glimpse inside Bountiful, a highly secretive community that resists outside scrutiny.

The British Columbia and federal governments are holding up the community as an example of why polygamy should remain illegal, but the women are expected to say the law — and not their marriages — is harming them and their families.

Metro Minute at Cinemania

Headbanging and beer drinking will be in the spotlight tonight at a University of Calgary movie doubleheader. As part of its ongoing Cinemania series, the university's Students' Union will screen 1992 cult classic Fubar and its 2010 followup Fubar 2 at That Empty Space starting at 6:30 p.m.

The two films follow the path of metal-heads Terry and Dean as they explore the depths of friendship while consuming copious amounts of alcohol.

Admission is free for all U of C students and $2 for the general public who wish to attend.

That Empty Space is located on the first floor of the MacEwan Student Centre. METRO

Oprah Winfrey has staged many a family reunion on her talk show. But on today's episode, she promises, the drama will be about her.

Winfrey told viewers Thursday that she will have a reunion of her own on the show. She wouldn't say with whom — only that it involves something she's learned about recently and is known to only a few people.

GO ON, GET HAPPY

▶ Gretchen Rubin author of The Happiness Project.

With The Happiness Project, Gretchen Rubin has started a revolution. A former lawyer, she wanted to be happier, so she devoted a year to testing strategies from sources as varied as Oprah and Plato. Here, she digests the best tips.

A few years ago, Gretchen Rubin, a lawyer-turned-writer in New York, was happy but thought she could be happier. Life was passing.

So the mother of two started a Happiness Project, reading self-help books (from Oprah to Thoreau) and crafting a year-long syllabus full of resolutions. She would clean her closets. She would be kinder to her husband.

She would start a children's lit club. She would get happy, dammit.

The result was success — and a runaway international bestseller.

Metro asked Rubin to walk through what she learned month-by-month.

"Jump in right where you are," she says. "There's no need to catch up. Start right now."

STEVE ABILENE/METRO WORLD NEWS

JANUARY
THE THEME: Boost Energy, Vitality
THE TAKEAWAY: "The key thing here is that outer order contributes to inner calm. Consider clutter and organizing. It matters. A messy closet doesn't matter but it does. You get a disproportionate boost from it. You can self-medicate through cleaning closets."

FEBRUARY
THE THEME: Remember Love, Marriage
THE TAKEAWAY: "It's very tempting to think how happy you would be if other people behaved properly. But you can only change yourself. People ask me, 'Did your husband change' but if you change the relationship changes."

MARCH
THE THEME: Aim Higher, Work
THE TAKEAWAY: "For me, I started my blog. I one hundred per cent thought that novelty and challenge would not make me happier. I thought mastery and familiarity were the keys and I expected to abandon it. But I love it. The idea is to do something novel."

APRIL
THE THEME: Lighten Up, Parenthood
THE TAKEAWAY: "I decided that if I acted the way I wanted to feel, I would feel more that way—so if I acted calm and lighthearted, I would be that, and my kids would be the same. Remember: 'The days are long but the years are short.'"

MAY
THE THEME: Be serious about play, Leisure
THE TAKEAWAY: "If you want to have fun, you have to schedule it like a dentist appointment. It can't always be spontaneous. It seems paradoxical to schedule your spontaneous time but that's the reality. If you never find time, you won't!"

JUNE
THE THEME: Make Time for Friends, Friendship
THE TAKEAWAY: "Facebook, Twitter, I'm a big believer in the power of technology. I agree that nothing can replace face-to-face contact. ... Things like Facebook and e-mail have increased the people I can keep loose ties with. They add a lot to my life."

JULY
THE THEME: Buy Some Happiness, Money
THE TAKEAWAY: "I emphasize the role that money can play in a happy life. Used wisely, money can contribute very mightily. And the question for time and money are the same. Think about money in a way that contributes to happiness?"

AUGUST
THE THEME: Contemplate the Heavens, Eternity
THE TAKEAWAY: "Ugh, I tried to keep a gratitude notebook. I abandoned that. But imitating spiritual masters is a really good thing to try. Figure out who your spiritual master is. Then figure out how to apply the teachings in your own life."

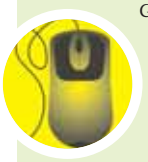
SEPTEMBER
THE THEME: Pursue a Passion, Books
THE TAKEAWAY: "When I was writing, several people said, 'No one likes to read like you do, make it broad.' And I said, 'I need to write about me and it's so much about books and reading.' I find people totally get it even if their thing is cooking or music or nature."

OCTOBER
THE THEME: Pay Attention, Mindfulness
THE TAKEAWAY: "I failed here. Like, food diary: can't do it. I simply cannot make myself do it. I'm going to try again. I've tried twice and I always end up abandoning it. Maybe I'll abandon it with pride. There's got to be another way to be aware of what you eat."

NOVEMBER
THE THEME: Keep a Contented Heart, Attitude
THE TAKEAWAY: "I just love that Samuel Pepys quote: '...if I have a heart to be contented." One of my new revelations is that—it sounds obvious but—happy people make people happy but you can't make someone be happy."

DECEMBER
THE THEME: Perfect Happiness
THE TAKEAWAY: "The book came out a little more than a year ago and I'm still doing almost all the resolutions plus many more, and I still write the blog and I'm still deep into happiness. My children's lit groups and the blogs ... that's just two things right there."

Join the project online



Gretchen Rubin continues her project online at happiness-project.com and invites you to join at happinessproject-toolbox.com.

Gretchen on TV

The Happiness Project is currently being turned into an NBC TV comedy starring Kristen Davis of Sex and the City. "It's not a done deal yet," says Rubin. "They're working away."

Canadian actor reportedly getting close to former Top Model contestant Couple take in play in NY

Jim Carrey is reportedly spending quality time with 24-year-old model Anchal Joseph, who was a contestant on America's Next Top Model in 2006, according to Radar Online.

The two stepped out together recently, checking out Laura Linney's latest play, Time Stands Still, in New York.

"Carrey's assistant called the theatre to ensure security would be top-notch and no one was to approach him for pictures," a source says.

"They were very romantic and there was lots of hand-holding."

Pet Car Control

Experts say having an unrestrained dog in the car can be deadly.

Tens of thousands of car accidents are believed to be caused every year by unrestrained pets, though no one has solid numbers.

The issue is drawing attention. Hawaii is the only state that specifically forbids drivers from operating a vehicle with a pet on their lap. But Oregon lawmakers are considering fining drivers who hold their pets behind the wheel.

TWO GENERATIONS, ONE BOND

What's the secret to a happy marriage? To find out, Metro asked a couple married for 50 years to speak with a couple who tied the knot on the weekend It's amazing how little has changed

KATE LOWENSTEIN
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS

In The Happiness Project, when Gretchen Rubin solicited advice for her month dedicated to marriage, one of her friends offered that her grandparents, married 70 years, said the secret to a happy marriage is to enjoy an indoor game and an outdoor game together.

To get another perspective, we asked two couples — one married 50 years, one just married.

Love at first sight for all of you?

Hank: I don't know if it was love at first sight, but it was attraction at first sight. It was at a fraternity party in college. We picked each other out.

Dale: We were out with mutual friends. And as a traditional southern girl, Sissi wouldn't give me her number.

What led to the decision to marry?

Harriet: What were we thinking? I don't know what we were thinking. We met on May 20, 1960, and were married June 11, 1961. There was no drawn out ... thing. If you wanted to be with someone, you got married. It was the mindset of that time.

Did you have certain expectations of what your marriage would be like?

Hank: Our aspirations were very traditional. We wanted to have a family and we wanted to grow together. I don't think we planned for 50 years or even five years down the road at that point.

"Even my 96-year-old grandmother could tell it was right. We'd go visit her and she'd say, 'Well, I can just tell.' It was just that feeling that you couldn't be without somebody."
SISSI ROBINSON

Why bother with the whole marriage thing? Why not just be together?

Dale: From a guy's perspective, I can connect with that a little bit. I think it's more for the girl: Getting married shows commitment. It's a promise. And if you're gonna be together, why not throw a good party.

Sissi: For me, it's that the tradition of marriage means a lot. Having that symbolically is more important than just being with somebody.

Hank and Harriet, did your ideas about marriage hold true over half a century?

Harriet: They did hold true. We wanted to be with one another, to raise a family and to help each other grow. I think we fulfilled that.

Did you ever worry, with all that growing, that you'd grow apart?

Hank: We've grown together and separately. We encourage each other in pursuits that the other one is not skilled or not interested in.

Harriet: Yeah. Over 50 years, you're going to change a lot. You need a partner who's going to encourage that.

Hank: For example: Harriet has become a professional artist — she's a sculptor. I can't chisel a piece of rock and get a flower or what have you, but I'm interested, and I encourage her.

Hank and Harriet, what was your most trying time?

Harriet: When Hank was first given the opportunity to go overseas for work, it was to Switzerland for five years. So we sold our house and moved to Switzerland with everything we had. I had to learn French, the kids were only in kindergarten and first grade ... it was really very difficult. And then, within six months, Hank was asked to go to Australia and next thing you know, we're packing up to move there. Years later, on the plane back from Australia, I made Hank sign a written contract that said we would never, ever pack up and move again. I think I still have it.

So, that's compromise right there. Do you have any other important rules?

Dale: We turn the TV off when we eat dinner.

Sissi: Yes, and we always sit at the dining table.

Hank: Funny you should say that — we have that rule, too. We like to know what each other has done that day.

Dale: Unless there's a football game on.

Hank: Oh yeah, for a playoff game we make a compromise: TV on, but no sound.

Slow-cooked and tender, too

This pulled pork sandwich is created by cooking the meat on low heat in a tangy sauce and serving on an onion bun

Pork slowly cooked in a tangy sauce until it pulls apart is a perfect dish to serve at lunch or dinner.

The long-cook method helps weaken the connective tissue in the meat, which allows the pork to be pulled or easily broken down into small pieces.

Preparation:

1. Place onions on bottom of slow cooker. Place pork on top. Sprinkle apples over top and down sides.
2. Sauce: In a large bowl, mix together chili sauce, mustard, honey, chili powder, tomato paste, Worcestershire sauce, sugar, paprika and garlic; pour over meat and apples. Cover and cook on low for 6 to 7 hours.
3. Remove roast to large plate. Using 2 forks in opposite directions, shred meat along its length. Stir meat back into sauce and serve on buns.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ingredients:

Slow Cooked Pork
- 500 ml (2 cups) thinly sliced onions
- 1.5 kg (3 lb) pork loin roast
- 500 ml (2 cups) chopped, peeled apples
- 8 large onion buns

Sauce
- 1 bottle (455 ml) chili sauce
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) each grainy mustard and liquid honey
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) chili powder
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) each tomato paste and Worcestershire sauce
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) packed brown sugar
- 5 ml (1 tsp) smoked paprika (or 10 ml/2 tsp regular paprika)
- 2 cloves garlic, minced

Lake Baikal blues

Pollutants threaten to destroy world's deepest lake

ALYONA BOBROVICH
METRO WORLD NEWS

FLICKRCC DELIRANTE BESTIOLE

▶ The sign reads, "Keep Baikal clean." Will it be like that in years to come?

Lake Baikal, the world's oldest and deepest lake, is famous for its pristine, enchantingly blue colour; locals call it the "Pearl" and "Blue Eye" of Siberia.

Yet the serene beauty of the lake is under threat.

A Soviet-era paper plant at its southern tip still pollutes the lake, ecologists say — the source of 96 percent of the lake's pollutants.

The Baikal Pulp and Paper Mill was built 44 years ago, at the height of Soviet industrialism when "mono-towns," communities built around a single factory, dotted the vast landscape.

But since then, the plant, which transforms wood into rolls of cardboard, has been wreaking havoc upon Baikal's ecosystem, says Andrei Margulev, a coordinator for a union of non-governmental ecological groups.

"Two years ago, they shut down this plant. Then Prime Minister Vladimir Putin had it reopened. To make this plant eco-friendly is simply impossible," the ecologist says.

Environmentalists reckon that every year the paper mill dumps millions of cubic meters of industrial waste into Baikal, and the pollution area will increase.

The plant in the town of Baikalsk is not the only culprit.

Located near Baikal's eastern banks, Ulan-Ude, (the capital city of the Russian region of Buryatia), as of 2007 dumped some 37 million cubic metres of wastewater into the river Selenga which runs into the lake.

Last summer, scientists carried out extensive first-time work in the waters near the Baikal Pulp and Paper Mill to measure its effects of life in and around the lake.

"After diving in submersibles near the plant's drainpipe, we discovered that traces of emissions were visible," Igor Khanaev, a senior biologist at the Limnological Institute in Irkutsk, told Metro.

"We also found that the number of fish and crustaceans was much less than in other locations of the lake."

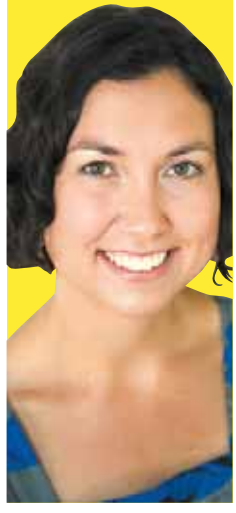
Scientists say Baikal's cleanliness is due to epischura baikalensis, a species of small crustaceans endemic to the lake, which breaks down natural impurities in the water, whose numbers decrease year by year.

To ignore this situation could mean that 10 years from now, Lake Baikal will no longer have that enchantingly blue colour.

ARE BAGS LEAD HEAVY?

Queen of Green

LINDSAY COULTER
GREEN@METRONEWS.CA



Recently in the news, I heard that lead was found in many reusable cloth bags. I'm all for using fewer plastic shopping bags, but how do I know if any of the bags I own contain lead?
Pete of Halifax, N.S.

High levels of lead have shown up in many reusable totes and grocery bags. To find out if the bags you own contain lead, contact the manufacturer. Some companies have gone so far as to issue recalls.

For example, you can read more about the Sears recall on Health Canada's Consumer Product Safety website at hc-sc.gc.ca.

Health Canada suggests that consumers immediately discontinue use of a particular style of bag, and Sears Canada is offering a refund to those who return their bags to their nearest Sears department store.

Similarly, Lululemon Athletica is concerned about a few of its bags when it comes to "disposal issues related to the environment due to the ink lead content."

If you've received one of Lululemon's free bags over the past year, you can return it to any store location.

Of course, you're not going to eat the bag, but for your next purchase, ask the retailer if its bags are printed using soy — or vegetable-based inks.

As with lead sometimes found in lipstick and kids' toys, lead makes an appearance in the pigment or paint on reusable bags.

If you have cloth bags without any designs, artwork or logos you should be fine. And don't forget to wash your bags and the produce you put in them.

Turning Point

TERESA KRUZE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

HUMBLE BEGINNINGS ON A NAPKIN

The company began as an idea on a crumpled up cocktail napkin and was born in the basement of a Calgary home. Now Print Audit is a multi-million dollar business with offices in seven countries around the world. It's the brain child of John MacInnes, an entrepreneur who caught the business bug early in life.

MacInnes' turning point came when he was 10 years old and was told he couldn't have a raise in his allowance.

"Dad showed me there were lots of ways to make money on your own." While his friends enjoyed their summers, John was running small businesses selling used books, washing windows and painting houses.

Fast forward 15 years later to the Christmas party and the crumpled up cocktail napkin. MacInnes took the idea and started Print Audit, a company that significantly lowers the cost and impact of printing from a computer.

"Fortune 500 companies use us … we're on one million desktops around the world."

A Canadian success story that's good for the environment? John MacInnes' father would be proud.

MacInnes Musings

- Find mentors and advisors. Save yourself some time by speaking with people who have been there.
- Get a customer. As soon as someone is willing to give you their money you have a company.
- Don't wait for your product to be perfect. Get it to "good enough" and then refine it quickly with advice.

Going back to the books

Think it's too late to learn again? It might be the perfect time to try

Students that re-matriculate to an undergrad program after years in the real world often think of their story as outside the norm. But according to the U.S. Department of Education, only about 35 per cent of students graduate in four years, and only 56 per cent finish in six.

The long haul is more common these days, and the wisdom gained from those who did make it back — to graduation, and beyond — is more valuable than ever.

ISTOCK

A few years out in the real world may be the perfect recipe for back-to-school success.

"I see a lot of young people who drop out or fail out because they can't ask for help. Just admitting shortcomings and seeking help is not a part of their success framework," says Hassan Davis, who failed out of Berea College twice before graduating as the student body president in 1992.

Since then, Davis obtained a law degree from the University of Kentucky and has received fellowships from the PEW and Rockefeller foundations. "I think it's important to share your dream. As soon as you do that, you'd be surprised who steps up to help you make that happen," he says.

After 40 years in the workforce, Jerry Spright graduated from Colorado State-Pueblo in 2010. "The consequences of not having a formal education were enormous," he says.

He is now just four credits from a master's degree. "The toughest part was convincing myself it was indeed a doable thing." NEWS CANADA

Steelers ground Jets

24	19
STEELERS	JETS

The Pittsburgh Steelers found a fitting way to shut down the New York Jets' season.

What started with Hard Knocks ended with hard knocks, too.

For the third time in six seasons, Terrible Towels will twirl at the Super Bowl. The Steelers silenced Rex Ryan's wild bunch with a fumble return for a touchdown and a goal-line stand in a 24-19 victory for the AFC championship yesterday. They will face Green Bay in Dallas in two weeks.

Look out Big D, here comes another Big D — in black and gold, and with an unmatched history of carrying off the Lombardi Trophy.

You can bet that unit led by James Harrison, which shut down the Jets' comeback in the fourth quarter, will test Aaron Rodgers. That overwhelming defence set the tone for most of a frigid night at Heinz Field to end the Jets' stunning post-season run.

Ryan slammed down his headset when Antonio Brown, also a hero last week, caught a pass for a first down that allowed Pittsburgh to hang on and run out the clock.

And the Steelers (14-4) will challenge the Packers' defence with a versatile attack led by running back Rashard Mendenhall and quarterback Ben Roethlisberger.

Woods falls to No. 3 in rankings

Tiger Woods is not even No. 2 in the golf rankings.

He has dropped to No. 3 after Martin Kaymer won in Abu Dhabi and overtook him for the No. 2 spot. Lee Westwood is No. 1.

Kaymer had been third overall but advanced by winning the European Tour event by eight strokes in his first tournament this year.

PACKERS	BEARS

Aaron Rodgers ran for a touchdown and made a saving tackle, B.J. Raji returned an interception for a score and Sam Shields had two interceptions to lead the Green Bay Packers to a 21-14 win over the Chicago Bears in the NFC championship game yesterday.

The victory sends the Packers (13-6) to the Super Bowl in Dallas on Feb. 6 to meet the Pittsburgh Steelers, who beat the New York Jets 24-19.

Raji's TD return in the final quarter put the Packers up 21-7. Third-string quarterback Caleb Hanie led two fourth-quarter TD drives, but Chicago's last chance to tie the game ended in the final minute when Shields came up with his second interception in Packers' territory.

Bears starter Jay Cutler hurt his knee and played only one series in the third quarter. Todd Collins replaced him but was ineffective.

The Packers have now won playoff road games in Philadelphia, Atlanta and Chicago this season.

It's been a while

The Packers and Bears met only one other time in the post-season, a 33-14 win by Chicago in 1941.

- After splitting two regular-season games — the Packers beat the Bears 10-3 in the finale just to get in — the hype for this matchup overflowed all week.
- Green Bay got into the playoffs as the sixth seed.

Schiavone wins an epic contest

4:19

The longest previous women's Grand Slam was at the Open last year when Barbora Zahlavova-Strycova beat Regina Kulikova in four hours 19 minutes.

One of the players was so exhausted she forgot who was serving. The other kept checking the ticking clock on centre court and thinking to herself, "Brava, Francesca!"

The clock finally stopped at four hours and 44 minutes, when French Open champion Francesca Schiavone of Italy beat Svetlana Kuznetsova 6-4, 1-6, 16-14 in the fourth round at the Australian Open and set a record for the longest women's Grand Slam match in the Open era.

Exhausted but elated, Schiavone described the match as "fantastic!" She reached her first Australian Open quarter-final in 11 tries. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 It's not like you to worry about things you cannot control, so why start now? Even if the worst does happen today it won't be anywhere near as bad as you fear.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 You seem unable to make up your mind whether to go all out to achieve your ambitions in the world at large or to give up on them altogether and just take life as it comes.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Focus only on happy thoughts today and make sure that you avoid people whose negative attitude could spoil the mood. If they want to be miserable that's up to them, but you don't have to give misery company.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Something you fear, no doubt irrationally, is about to make a reappearance in your life, but that's good news because it will compel you to deal with the source of your fear once and for all.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 You need to take a more even-handed approach to partnership issues. Not even a go-getting, livewire Leo can do it all on your own.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 The cult of new is not always good. Sometimes the old way of doing things is best and because you have never been one to slavishly follow fashion you will, most likely, avoid the mistakes that others make today.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 If you take too negative a view of other people's motives today you could miss out on something worth having. Nothing will go wrong so long as you have the courage to take a few risks.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You may be tempted to say something negative to a friend today but you are advised against it. Even if what you say is true you won't get any thanks for it.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Sometimes even a Sagittarius has to sit back and wait for things to happen and that is very much the message of the stars for you right now. Be patient.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 If you are feeling a bit tongue-tied maybe you should take it as a sign that this is not the right time to speak up. If you say too much today you may have to unsay it again tomorrow.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 If you want to get the most out of the next 24 hours you must limit yourself to doing only those things that are truly important. Don't get distracted from your number one aim.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 The more others criticize you the more determined you will be to carry on with what you are doing. You may be a sensitive soul but deep down you have a core of steel.
